Holistic view

"You are what you eat. Your food is your cure."

Hippocrates already taught us this. This hint at the present time more current than ever, because we move little, our body is oxidative exposed to stress, our foods are often heavily processed and not fresh and therefore low in vitamins, amino acids, minerals and trace elements. We are often exposed to artificial light and are insufficiently moving in the sun. Our sleep rhythm corresponds not the natural rhythm intended for us. Mindfulness for we leave ourselves to a healthy balance between body and mind completely disregarded. This means that our body can no longer compensate for all of this and immune responses and diseases increase. For optimal Health it is essential to take care of body and soul.
